

Apparatus of the present invention comprises a control unit controlling comparison of identifying information input by a user with identifying information stored in a storage medium, which also stores authentication information for applications corresponding to the stored identifying information. The apparatus also comprises a set unit setting, as input information for authentication system of one of the applications, the authentication information the storage medium sends to the set unit responsive to a result of the comparison.